

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS REGARDING JURY DUTY

Jury Duty Service

Jury service is one of the highest duties of citizenship. It is also a very interesting experience and will give you an opportunity to learn more about our system of justice and how it works. The success of our legal system is measured directly by the dedication, impartiality, sound judgment and integrity of those like you who serve as jurors. While it may interrupt your normal schedule, we hope any inconvenience will be minimal. The liberty or the property of another is on trial and as a conscientious person you will want to do your best to make sure that the jury on which you sit returns a verdict that is as fair and impartial as possible.

How long do trials last? How long will I be there?

The Judges try to seat their juries in the morning; therefore, if you are not seated on a case, you are normally (but not always) released in early afternoon. If you are a juror on a particular trial, you should plan on being at the courthouse until about 5:00 p.m. The average trial length is 2 to 3 days; occasionally a case will last longer. The judge will inform you of the expected length of the case during jury selection.

No, an employer does not have to pay you, but they must release you from work if you are summoned as a juror.

What should I wear?

Please wear clothing that is conservative, clean and comfortable. Shorts, tank tops and bare midriffs are not appropriate.

What else should I bring?

Books, magazines, or small items to use while you are waiting will help to pass the time.
